Overview

Christine Pratt, KC represents individuals, insurers, governments and corporations of various sizes located throughout Alberta and the Northwest Territories, with a focus on insurance defence, personal injury and general civil litigation, including mediation. Christine's insurance clients turn to her for help with casualty, coverage, subrogation, errors and omissions, fidelity and employment disputes.

Christine represents corrections and police services clients before administrative tribunals and inquiries, including peace officer disciplinary reviews before the Law Enforcement Review Board of Alberta and various Fatality Inquiries. In addition, Christine regularly represents contractors and subcontractors regarding construction liens and other general construction matters.

With over 30 years experience pursuing and defending personal injury claims involving minor to serious bodily injuries and fatalities, Christine provides her clients with a risk assessment and a range of options to ensure they understand the likelihood of success at trial and whether a favourable alternative resolution is ideal under the specific circumstances of the case. Christine is also available as an Umpire in the dispute resolution process under s. 519 of the Insurance Act, RSA 2000, c I-3.

Christine articulated with Field Law from 1992-93 and returned to the firm in 1998 after practicing for five years at a small, full-service law firm. She also taught insurance law for 12 years and is currently in her fourth year of teaching civil procedure at the University of Alberta Faculty of Law.

Value to Clients

"Regardless of the industry sector or type of dispute at issue, I always try to understand my clients' non-legal, business pressures. I'm also an empathetic listener and dedicated to fostering relationships with clients built on trust. My clients occasionally deal with claims that touch on aspects of their business and areas of law that fall outside my practice focus. One of the numerous benefits of practicing at Field law is the ability to leverage the skill sets of lawyers throughout the firm to ensure the diverse needs of my clients are served no matter what issues may arise."

Client StoriesSettling an insurance claim below the cap

- Our client: An insurance company in Alberta.
- Where we began: Our client faced an action brought by a woman with injury claims from two accidents with no dispute on the liability issues.
- Our approach: While we were on the lookout for a case to take to litigation, the client was willing to settle for an amount within the cap. "The case had the ideal facts to fall within the cap, but we settled before we could litigate for an amount within the cap on account of non-legal pressures."
- The result: According to Christine, "We didn't get the law we wanted, but it was an offer we had to take after looking at, analyzing and discussing all of the options."

Quick response in getting a lien removed in order to close

- Our client: A homebuilder in Alberta.
- Where we began: In the midst of closing a real estate transaction, our client discovered a subcontractor's lien that needed to be removed by the next Monday, or we couldn't close on 50 deals and our client would have to return the mortgage funds. The challenge was that the subcontractor was out of business and couldn't be reached.
- Our approach: Christine found the subcontractor's subcontractor and discussed what was necessary to remove the lien. They analyzed the options, timelines and the risks, including our client's relationship to the subcontractor and its effect on other liens. Christine and her client also developed a plan with how they were going to handle similar scenarios in the future, limit liability and close deals.
- The result: "I got the subcontractor's lien off Monday, and our client's deal closed on time."

Notable Work

- Negotiated favourable settlement of a personal injury lawsuit involving a plaintiff with significant injuries, with multiple Plaintiffs and insurance limits issues

- Represented clients at fatality inquiries as interested parties
- Conducted numerous LERB appeals
- Conducted and trial and appeal of a double fatality action and liability split
- Defended (as part of a legal team) complex multi-year/multi-party litigation
- Quickly removed a subcontractor's lien discovered in the midst of closing a major real estate transaction on behalf of an Alberta home builder
