Overview

Construction and design errors are an unfortunate but common reality on projects of all sizes. Field Law lawyers have extensive experience in defending and prosecuting deficiency claims.

On the defence side, our insurance group includes litigators with extensive insurance industry experience and deep proficiency on matters related to all areas of commercial litigation and in defending deficiency claims. Field Law's experience with both simple and complex claims allows us to develop effective legal strategies that will help effectively defend businesses against such claims and achieve the best possible resolution.

The same experience allows Field Law to prosecute deficiency claims effectively. An understanding of the necessary facts and law required to both defend and prosecute a deficiency claim places our lawyers in a strong position to obtain favourable results for our clients.
