Overview

The law of directors' and officers' liability is multifaceted and ever expanding. Individuals serving on boards of public corporations, private companies and non-profit organizations may be held accountable for the actions of the businesses they oversee and there is a duty of care on them to exercise due diligence in their management of the organization. Claims against directors and officers can arise in numerous ways and our team has experience defending these issues for directors and officers from Fortune 500 companies to those of volunteer boards.

Lawyers at Field Law are called upon to advise on a variety of issues, including:

- Errors and Omissions
- Due Diligence
- Liability
- Reporting issues
- Duty of Care
- Risk Management
