Overview

Anyone conducting business today is conducting it online in some way and as a result there are very few businesses that are free from the reach of Internet-related issues. This is an area where experience counts. Where do you turn if you are facing these Internet-related issues?

Our multi-disciplinary team of lawyers, patent agents and trademark agents brings a steady hand and trusted advice to business managers in a dynamic area of law that changes frequently. Our lawyers take a cross-disciplinary approach to this complex area of law, with experience in litigation, contract drafting, business advice, regulatory issues, labour and employment, intellectual property, privacy, mergers and acquisitions. We can help you with:

- Ecommerce - we have assisted clients with establishing enforceable electronic and e-commerce contracts for sales and shipping of products, from software integration to checkout to order fulfillment
- Software development, licensing, cloud-based software, mobile apps and software-as-a-service (SaaS) - our team advises clients on support agreements, online license terms, web-based end-user license agreements, terms of service and escrow accounts
- Buying and selling assets and shares of technology companies with Internet-based businesses, including due diligence and strategic advice related to subscription-based software and data
- Social media law - we provide advice to bricks-and-mortar companies and non-traditional technology businesses and institutions on the development of social media policies, privacy policies, handling social media issues in the employment context, as well as social media issues related to copyright and trademarks
- Online copyright infringement - we handle online copyright infringement cases, including responding to copyright infringement allegations, infringement takedowns, advising on the new notice-and-notice procedures and handling copyright registrations and litigation
- Online defamation - our lawyers provide trusted counsel to clients in handling online defamation and takedowns, including defamation litigation, seeking Norwich orders and pursuing remedies against publishers of defamatory communications
- Online contests and rules - we review and provide advice for online contests including social-media aspects of conducting contests online
- Email legal issues - we advise clients on the legal aspects of email, from Canada's Anti-Spam Laws ("CASL"), to employment issues, to contract formation and electronic discovery in the course of litigation
- Internet-related inventions and software patent issues - our Intellectual Property team advises on patentability, validity and infringement analysis for Internet-related inventions
